

Peer Reviewed

Title:

Contributors 10:1

Journal Issue:

Places, 10\(1\)

Publication Date:

1995

Publication Info:

Places

Permalink:

<http://escholarship.org/uc/item/3hh2f8xh>

Acknowledgements:

This article was originally produced in Places Journal. To subscribe, visit www.places-journal.org. For reprint information, contact places@berkeley.edu.

Keywords:

places, placemaking, architecture, environment, landscape, urban design, public realm, planning, design, contributors

Copyright Information:

All rights reserved unless otherwise indicated. Contact the author or original publisher for any necessary permissions. eScholarship is not the copyright owner for deposited works. Learn more at http://www.escholarship.org/help\_copyright.html#reuse

eScholarship
University of California

eScholarship provides open access, scholarly publishing services to the University of California and delivers a dynamic research platform to scholars worldwide.

CONTRIBUTORS

Thomas J. Campanella

received a masters degree in landscape architecture from Cornell and is pursuing a Ph.D in urban planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He studies and writes about landscapes, places and the built environment, and is currently project coordinator at the Centre for Planning, Architecture and Development in Hong Kong.

Catherine Howett

is professor in the School of Environmental Design, University of Georgia, where she teaches in both the landscape architecture and historic preservation programs.

Allan B. Jacobs

is chairman of the Department of City and Regional Planning at the University of California, Berkeley. He is author of Great Streets, Looking at Cities and Making City Planning Work.

Lucien Kroll

is an architect and town planner in Brussels. His work has included the design and redesign of social housing projects, which have been noted for their approaches to resident participation.

Robert Lane

practices architecture in New York City. The recipient of numerous grants, his research has focused on urban issues. Research for "The Machine Next Door" was exhibited at New York's Municipal Art Society in fall, 1994. Currently, he is working on Beyond the Box, an urban design study of superstore in cities.

John A. Loomis

is a professor of architecture at the City College of New York and a Loeb Fellow at the Harvard Graduate School of Design. He is preparing a book Hôtel Industriel - Parisian Prototypes for an Economically Diverse City, supported in part by a grant from the Arnold W. Brunner Foundation.

Elizabeth S. Macdonald

is an architect and a graduate student in the departments of city and regional planning and landscape architecture at the University of California, Berkeley. She is now moving on to doctoral studies. Her present research is concentrated on boulevard streets.

Terezia Nemeth

is an urban designer with Bay Area Economics in West Berkeley. She holds degrees in architecture from the University of California, Berkeley, and in real estate development from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Cheryl Parker

is an urban designer at Skidmore, Owings and Merrill in San Francisco. She consults to the South of Market Foundation, developing ideas in this article, and consults to the Buffalo Organization for Social and Technological Innovation (BOSTI) about the changing work place. She received her Masters in Architecture and City and Regional Planning from the University of California, Berkeley.

Yodan Y. Rofé

is an architect and a doctoral candidate in city and regional planning at the University of California, Berkeley. His thesis work is centered on judging people's experiences and feelings in public spaces and finding ways to integrate them into the process of planning and urban design.

Sheryl G. Tucker

is an assistant professor of architecture at the University of Houston. She recently received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, Design Program, to produce design and construction documents for adapting a two-story storefront into a performing arts space for Project Row Houses.

Center

A Journal for Architecture in America

Editor: Michael Benedikt

This award-winning journal, published annually for the last eight years, is produced by the Center for American Architecture and Design at the University of Texas at Austin.

Regarding the Proper Volume 9, Spring 1995

Kevin Alter and Elizabeth Danze, Guest Editors

• Features in-depth articles by today's leading writers including: Moshen Mostafavi and David Leatherbarrow, Catherine Ingraham, Beatriz Colomina, Krzysztof Wodiczko, and Elizabeth Diller.

• Investigates the way in which contemporary architecture both overlooks and celebrates changing conventions of fairness, propriety, and property in our society.

Subscription Rates:
Individual $15.50, Institution $35

University of Texas Press

Journals Division

Box 7819

Austin, TX 78713-7819

Phone # 512-471-4531, Fax # 512-320-0668

journal_orders@utpress.ppb.utexas.edu

